OREGON CITY LETTER.

Oregon City, August 7, 1873.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The usual quiet of our city was somewhat disturbed this morning by a fashionable wedding. The parties married were Mr. William Crosby, of Olympia, and Miss M. [illegible], of this city. The ceremony took place in the Episcopal Church at half-past ten o'clock in the presence of a large audience. The youth, beauty and fashion of the city turned out to see one of our fairest daughters given away in marriage. Before the hour [illegible] the church was densely packed. Rev. [illegible] Sellwood, of this place, was the officiating clergyman. The ceremony was beautiful and impressive. The bride was [illegible] in a dove colored silk dress with a [illegible] train, elegantly trimmed. [illegible] of a little darker shade, parasol and gloves to correspond. Beautiful in person and [illegible] dressed, she looked very attractive indeed. The bridesmaid, Miss M. J[illegible], looked well and filled her place [illegible]. The groomsman, [illegible], was neatly dressed in black, with white vest, tie and gloves. The groomsman appeared to advantage. The bridal party started for Portland in a carriage immediately after the ceremony. They intend sailing for San Francisco by the Ajax on a wedding tour. We understand they will then go to Olympia, where Mr. Crosby is engaged in business. They carry with them the kind regards and well wishes of many friends here. We think it too bad that the young gentlemen of our town allow strangers to come and carry off its fairest daughters, but so long as the young men are inactive and Oregon City remains noted for pretty ladies, we suppose this state of things will continue.

County Court has been in session during the week. The most important case before Judge Waite was that of S. R. Smith vs. Willamette Freighting Company. It was a suit to recover half pay as captain and pilot of the steamer Calliope, after she was built and was lying at Corvallis in 1870. The plaintiff got judgment for the amount claimed.

Mr. Jennings McCarver, County Treasurer, having made arrangements to remove to [illegible], yesterday tendered his resignation as Treasurer, and [illegible] Beatie, Esq., late Deputy Sheriff, was appointed in his stead. Mr. McCarver carries with him the good wishes of his many friends. We hope he may prosper at the Terminus or wherever he may go.

Several of our citizens are seeking rest and relaxation on the coast and in the mountains. Mayor F. O. McCown started for the Beach with his family and some friends [illegible]. T. A. Wirth and family, C. M. Kester, Esq., and family, Sheriff Hedges and family and ex-Sheriff Warner and family started for Mt. Hood on Tuesday morning. The weather has been somewhat unfavorable for observation and may curtail the pleasure a little. Dr. Welch has returned from his hunt. He and Mr. Holmes succeeded in capturing [illegible] elk and some deer and lesser game.

Among the improvements noticeable is the fresh appearance of the Phoenix Hotel. It has recently been painted white and looks much better and inviting. Work in the factory has begun. The cellar wall of Messrs. C. W. Pope & Co. is nearly finished and soon the bricklayers will be at work. Mrs. M. M. Charman's new house on Main street, between Seventh and Eighth streets, is progressing rapidly and promises to be quite handsome.

The election of lady teachers for the City Seminary has been postponed until the 9th inst. The examination will be on Saturday, 9th inst. More anon.

A Washington dispatch of the 2d inst. says that since the abolition of the franking privilege, but few members of Congress use the mails in transmitting public documents, as they find it cheaper to have them sent by express. The Superintendent of the folding room at the Capitol has received many letters from members of Congress lately, and nearly all of them express the belief that the franking privilege will be re-enacted when Congress meets in December, at least to such an extent as to permit all public documents and Department letters to pass through the mails free.

A Chicago dispatch of August 3d says: A fine warehouse situated in the central portion of the city, in course of erection, was partially destroyed by fire last night. The entire cost of the building thus far was $400,000. The roof, which was badly shattered, cost $32,300; skylight $32,000; plastering, $16,000; carpenter work $44,000. For the ground on which the building stands $330,000 cash was paid. It was to have been finished by the 1st of September, and Field, Leiter & Co. were to take possession of it, paying a rent of about $75,000 per annum. No insurance on the building.

The New York Tribune's correspondent with the Yellowstone expedition tells of a hail storm on the 24th of June, wherein a large yellow dog and a number of young antelope were beaten to death. The storm lasted fifteen minutes, demolished a mule train and destroyed a wagon and six days' rations for 35 men. The stones were as large as walnuts. When the storm ceased the hail was from two to three inches deep on a level, and a foot or more in drifts. Some of the men were severely bruised and the hat of the Major in command was perforated with holes.

The explanation at Berlin of the story recently stated by a Vienna newspaper, that a treaty between Russia and Prussia providing for a new partition of Poland was signed in 1863, is to the effect that after the Polish rebellion of 1863 had been suppressed, the Russian Government offered to cede to Prussia a part of that troublesome and ungovernable country, but Bismarck declined, declaring that he was of opinion that with a still greater number of subjects belonging to the nationality [illegible] to the Prussian Government the principle of a Constitutional Government would become an impossibility in Prussia.

Full details of the capture of Khiva have been sent by previous dispatches. General Kauffman is well satisfied with the result of the campaign. The entire Russian loss is 21 killed and 92 wounded, including 26 casualties in the navy. Two officers and fourteen men, being decoyed by treachery into a Turkoman camp, were massacred. Grand Duke Nicholas and [illegible] Leuchtenberg greatly distinguished themselves in the affair. Both were two hours under fire and are great favorites with the army. There were captured twenty cannon and a large quantity of ammunition. Khiva City is a dirty, squalid place, with shabby environs. The country, however, is delightful and the vegetation beautiful. A strong party of Russians, taking advantage of the circumstances, are domiciled during the trading community. The population is very quiet and respectful.

PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

Portland, August [illegible].

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The event of the recent fire [illegible] we may be excused for [illegible] other [illegible] than the one mournful theme.

[illegible] of your [illegible] publish [illegible] telegrams received from distant [illegible] to bring material aid and [illegible] as well as our thanks in appreciation [illegible] appointment [illegible] committees to [illegible] for the unfortunate [illegible] and people. Every good general makes it his first duty to see that the sick and disabled of his army are cared for after the battle. It is nevertheless [illegible] incumbent upon him to prevent surprise from the enemy [illegible] properly post and equip [illegible] for the next attack.

No sensible citizen can doubt for a moment the existence of many localities in our city which, if fire [illegible], would prove as disastrous perhaps as the conflagration of Saturday last. Then in my opinion it is best that our authorities, like a good General, should prepare our forces at once to conquer the enemy more easily, if possible, the next time.

To save us from surprise, vigilance and prompt action are needed, and all look to the authorities to exercise them.

As the editor of the Bulletin has given us his theory to be practiced for the prevention and extinguishment of fires, and reviewed and expressed his opinions of the firemen's work on the 2d and [illegible], I will ask you the favor of using a space in your columns to review his paper as I find it on this subject. I shall endeavor to do him justice where he does others injustice, and give fair reasons for my views.

In Tuesday's paper he proceeds first to flatter the Fire Department for their former exertions in our behalf; that the firemen will [illegible] with the consideration it is worth from whence it comes, for he is no fireman. He then, in the same breath, tells us of their failure to conquer the fire of Saturday, and insists that "we want something like organization and discipline among the general body of citizens."

ORGANIZATION AND DISCIPLINE

[illegible] the secret of success of all bodies. No army could fight a battle, no fire department would be anything but a rabble without them. And the better officered and the better disciplined they are, the more effectively will their duties be performed. Discipline and knowledge of the duties of a soldier are only acquired from instruction and practice at drill. No soldier is born with the sword or rifle in his hand, but learns his manual and the use of arms at manhood. The fireman requires discipline and drill as well. He must be taught to obey his officers, to handle with the greatest skill his apparatus and to face danger calm and collected. To do this requires constant practice in some way. His officers should be competent mechanics, thoroughly understand the construction and power of their apparatus in order to work it well when required. I know there are many who think such strict conformance to discipline unnecessary, but neglecting it has been the ruin of our volunteer departments and has rendered the name of fireman in some other cities a disgrace. In this city it has not become a disgrace to be a fireman, except with some perhaps who have brought their prejudices with them. Our Department boasts of many of our best citizens, who are active and exempt members. For my own part I have yet to discover in the duties of a fireman anything which requires him to descend from the deportment of a gentleman to perform. In fact I believe that the motive which impels one to perform the duties of the fireman spring from one of the noblest feelings of the human heart—self sacrifice. Here, then, is one incentive for binding them together. There are many others which engender a spirit of emulation very commendable, that contributes also to keep them "ready for service," that are far from being mercenary.

But such an organization as suggested would never succeed, for they would lack many of the essentials for unity which the firemen possess. One thing in particular would be that their services might never be required again for a long period of time. The citizen would soon begin to neglect his weekly drill and, in a short time, stay away altogether. Then when the time arrived requiring your "organization" to serve you, would find nearly all of your "citizens" to have forgotten their parts. It will be better to pass some ordinances requiring citizens to assist and obey the executive officers at times of fires, as is the case in some other cities.

You next discover that maple trees are a wonderful protection, and recommend the planting of them "along our business thoroughfares as a protection against fire in the summer time." If this is necessary, we must either postpone the fires or building houses until the trees grow, and if we build more than one story structures it will take years to obtain that protection. When these trees are covered with foliage, full of sap, as in the cases you refer to, and when there is distance enough, they do afford a temporary protection for a short time, but as soon as the sap is evaporated they only add fuel to the flames, and unless the trees are immediately cut away they form an almost insurmountable obstruction to any stream of water which might be thrown.

As we cannot wait for the growing of trees upon our business avenues, suppose something like the following should be undertaken: Pass ordinances to clean from our already too narrow streets every projecting sign, every wooden awning, whether suspended or not (the suspended ones are much the most dangerous, as they are difficult to remove in haste) in time of fire, and every unsightly telegraph pole or post. Next construct your buildings of brick, and let our architects so design them as to be expressive of the temper of our people—a solid steadfast [illegible]. Expend the money that is now [illegible] for ornament upon the construction of the walls, and cease to [illegible] with [illegible] them now resemble as very much of the bedecked, soiled doves [illegible] glide along our business avenues—in gay colors—beautiful without, but so frail within. I do not wish to be understood that ornaments should be dispensed with entirely, but that when they are used at the expense of safety of the structure, they should be abandoned, and there are already too many such instances in our city. [illegible]

[illegible] the wall is carried above the [illegible] at least as high as the projection [illegible] of brick, stone or metal [illegible] twenty-four inches beyond the wall. Then, with chemical hand [illegible] provide all [illegible] fire apparatus which may be required at any time [illegible]

[illegible]—nor again needed [illegible]

THE TERRITORIES.

Northern Pacific Head Light instead of Tacoman is the name of the new paper to be established at Tacoma, W. T., and the first number will appear shortly.

The furniture store of T. S. Russel & Co., of Seattle, had a call from a burglar last Saturday night, but he was frightened away without securing anything.

The August term of the District Court for the Third Judicial District convened in Seattle last Monday, the 4th inst., with Hon. O. Jacobs, C. J., on the bench.

J. H. Terry, who shot and deliberately wounded Delbert Wright, in Seattle, on the 19th ult., was committed to await the action of the grand jury by Justice Smith. Wright is recovering from his wound.

The Olympia Courier says: "An Indian named Seulla, who had recently taken out citizen papers and has been employed as a teamster in Steilacoom for some years past, was fatally stabbed by a white man last Monday night, at that place. The murderer has not yet been arrested. He was attempting to interfere with the family arrangements of the Indian, which the latter resisted, and in the disturbance was frightfully gashed, being nearly cut in two after he was down. The public feeling is quite strong against the perpetrator of the deed, and legal proceedings will be instituted against him."

The main avenue in Tacoma, 100 feet in width, is flanked on either side with blocks 300 feet in length, running back 120 feet to a narrow street 40 feet wide, thus avoiding the filthy and offensive alleys which disgrace so many of the older cities. As the lots are 50 feet broad by 120 feet deep, running from the broad avenue to the narrow back street, the avenue can be kept clean, all the dirt and refuse of the stores, warehouses and houses being collected in the back or narrow street, and in these trucks and drays for exit and entrance of packages of goods can be used, leaving the front street or avenue free for passengers, shop windows, ornamental fronts, etc., and for customers, safe from the annoyance incident to receiving or discharging merchandise by the front entrance.

It may be unfair to judge of a writer's compensation by his verbosity, but we can find no more reasonable explanation for the following from ex-Senator Henry S. Foote's "Reminiscences," in the Washington Chronicle, than to suppose that he is paid by the column:

"It [illegible] be here mentioned that the opponents of Mr. Van Buren had unwittingly enhanced his popularity very much by an ever [illegible] and unsparing assailment of him, a result which may be always confidently anticipated as the effect of such a course of proceeding [illegible] the popular masses of our country shall themselves remain pure and uncorrupted and capable of discriminating justly between the bold and needful arraignment of great public malefactors and the attempt, so often witnessed in all republics, to undermine and dishonor [illegible] by means of illiberal charges [illegible] often by the shallowest [illegible] or lowest [illegible] one of the most wonderful [illegible] of the present age, and [illegible] such paltry and ill-gotten [illegible] never fail to recoil sooner or later upon those who employ them. It may be regarded as a manifest proof both of intellectual weakness and a want of elevated self respect to exhibit the least [illegible] under such commendatory [illegible]."

The Rutland (Vt.) Herald is responsible for these assertions: An old resident of Castleton, who lives in the vicinity of Bomoseen Lake, was recently fishing in the lake, being anchored but a few rods from the shore, when he had a most extraordinary bite and take at the end of his line and hook. With an unlimited amount of exertion he pulled up—a four gallon jug with something inside tugging at the line. Upon breaking the jug a three pound pickerel was found. The probabilities are that the fish in his early "fishhood," being of a philosophical turn of mind, or being out on a little time in search of something to make his heart happy, had entered this jug, and being unable to get out, had remained there ever since, till he had attained his present weight and age.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 8, 1873.

HOW SHALL WE BUILD

The Boston [illegible], in commenting on the Baltimore [illegible] Portland, Maine) fires, remarks that [illegible] we have [illegible] grown the [illegible] built cheaply [illegible] premiums and to depend upon [illegible] the discovery of fires and [illegible] engines at a distance [illegible] we may come to look upon a fire in a large city involving a [illegible] proving that there has [illegible] pidity and neglect in the [illegible] the fire. This is exactly the [illegible] will seek to impress upon our citizens who have suffered [illegible] calamitous conflagrations of the last twelve months. The work of rebuilding the waste places will soon be commenced. The indomitable energy and pluck with which every one of our exchanges that have referred to the late conflagration have credited the people of Portland, and which is a matter of just pride, will at once begin the labor of reconstruction. Let us add to that energy and pluck the discretion which we ought to learn from our great affliction. And first as to the material to be used in building. We have already referred to one of the lessons of our great fires, viz: that Oregon fir will burn quite as readily in a general conflagration as will any other kind of wood. Then the very first precaution to be taken is to build of some material that will retard rather than advance the progress of fire. The chances for a recurrence of Saturday's disaster would be infinitely lessened if the business portion of the burnt district could be replaced with substantial structures of brick. These need not be of the most expensive character. By economical management they could be made to cost but little more than the large two [illegible] frame buildings which, in many instances, they [illegible] replace. A row of solid brick [illegible] would add vastly to the security of tenants, would enhance the value of adjacent property, and contribute in every way to the general safety. Lower rates of insurance could be had because of the reduced liability to attack. And this exemption from the burden of high rates would extend to the tenant, as well. The merchant who places his stock in the inflammable wooden structure, runs the terrible risk of non insurance or makes heavy annual payments for surety against fire.

Of course there are some who will be unable to adopt these suggestions. But when we add the considerations offered to the cost of the ordinary wooden building, the difference will not be so great after all. Indeed, we are persuaded that it would be greatly in favor of the plan suggested. Let our real estate owners build one story bricks, (if they can do no better) with honest fire walls. In after years additions can be made as desired. Give us a reasonable security in the building, and we can better make provision in other precautionary directions.

Wisdom [illegible] knowledge judiciously applied. Throughout the United States, within the past four years, our people have learned much of the nature of fire, but they have failed to apply their knowledge. The only safe way is to treat this element as a dangerous enemy, and to be prepared to meet it at all points,— the individual by constructing his buildings so that the enemy will find it difficult to get a foothold, the municipality by providing a sufficiency of instruments, water and men to overcome it, if these other precautions fail. Let the fire department supplement the efforts of the property holder. Let the individual be persuaded that upon him (and in no small degree) rests a responsibility for the safety of his neighbor's life and wealth. All other possible reforms are but modifications of these, and we think notwithstanding the terrible losses borne by Portland and her sister cities in consequence of the inadequacy of the public fire departments, the most important reform is that which must be brought about by the owners and occupants of buildings in their individual capacity.

We propose to put on record a judicial decision intimately related to bull pups which will cause the narrative of each particular dog within Bergh's jurisdiction to oscillate joyously. Mr Recorder Evans, of Lancaster, Penn., had before him a person charged with cruelty in pinching the tails from five pups. The Recorder remarked in the exordium to his decision that there was some doubt in his own mind as to whether the removal of dogs tails under any circumstances [illegible] for the purpose of enabling them better to minister to our pleasures, was not cruelty. After an exhaustive argument of the constitutionality of dogs in the concrete, the Recorder concluded that "the method of twisting the end off at the first joint and pulling out the nerve is under ordinary circumstances the infliction of cruelty within the meaning of the act of the assembly. But [illegible] this sage limb of the law, "there is no evidence before me that the pups so treated evinced [illegible] the usual manner by screams and cries that they were suffering pain." He therefore dismissed the defendant with the salutary admonition of not guilty, but mustn't do so again. For, concluded the Recorder, [illegible] construed to say that the custom [illegible] universal in this community of twisting pups' tails off [illegible] must be discountenanced and put an end to.

What a fine thing it is to be an Alderman to be sure. Here is Alderman Kehr [illegible] of the [illegible] municipality of New York [illegible] be a profane man [illegible] plethoric with [illegible] Alderman Kehr be it known is a manufacturer of desks. He furnished the Fire Department with a large number of desks, but when he presented his bill to Controller Green, that official [illegible] a clause in the new charter which [illegible] any city official from furnishing [illegible] anything for which payment is expected. And when he applied [illegible] the Fire Department [illegible] for the furniture [illegible] the law required them to return [illegible] all city property in their possession [illegible] should return the desks [illegible] the vouchers [illegible] Kehr [illegible] smile [illegible] he resolved [illegible] gave it up and retired [illegible] desks [illegible] everything. Wonder if those shrewd officials ever heard of Article V of the Federal Constitution— nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

THE RAILWAY QUESTION.

The following is the [illegible] paragraph [illegible] situation [illegible] late number of the New York Nation:

We have gone on for thirty years treating railroads as private property and permitting [illegible] their construction by private enterprise [illegible] also be devised for protecting the minority [illegible] What ever the evils of our railroad system they are not to be met or removed by fraud.

[illegible] embarrassments to which the over sensitive [illegible] is [illegible] usually liable is illustrated in the [illegible] experience of an English man who is now traveling in the United States for pleasure and information. He writes the New York [illegible] that he went into the New York postoffice to mail a letter and finding the clerk to be as he supposed a very [illegible] agreeable young man ventured a few brief interrogatories on domestic subjects such as the young man's mode of living, amount of salary, number of children, and other equally interesting and [illegible] topics. But this insulted sensitive Englishman shall tell his own story:

He suddenly pulled out his portmonnaie and handed me a little card, which I presumed to be an invitation to to join his domestic circle, when to my astonishment I discovered thereon the figure of a corpse lying in his coffin with these words inscribed: "This man was talked to death." I need not tell you that I vacated the premises immediately, and having since learned that the course pursued has been authorized by the Postmaster General I have deemed it necessary to ask the intervention of my Minister, and while Sir Edward Thornton is conducting the diplomatic correspondence attending the insult I deem it my duty to lay the facts before the public in order that they may see for themselves what sort of people are employed by the use of moneys wrung from their pockets by unjust taxation and incivility.

This is a little disheartening, but the impudent clerk will probably be made to suffer for his incivility. Some of these days we shall look for some such dispatch as the following from our indefatigable press reporter in San Francisco: Publius Flaccus Smith, [illegible] the young man who so grossly insulted Mr J Taurus some time since, was arrested this evening on a warrant from Governor Dix. (Here follow exhaustive reflections on Civil Service and a general resume of the reporter's system of ethics.)

One of the most notable failures of late years is that of H I Kimball of Atlanta, Georgia, mention of which was made in our columns a few days ago. The Boston Advertiser gives a brief sketch of his career. He began business at Norway, Maine in the carriage factory of C P Kimball. From there he went to New Haven and thence after the war had caused the failure of the firm in which he had an interest he went to Colorado where he made a large fortune in mining speculations. Just before the close of the war he opened a broker's office in Chicago. Here he became intimately acquainted with Pullman of palace car fame, by whom he was persuaded to go to Georgia. In a remarkably brief space of time he got control of the principal railway lines in that State. He engaged in a most disastrous speculation—the building of the great H I Kimball House in Atlanta— which finally brought about his financial ruin. His liabilities reach the enormous sum of $a 000,000 nearly all secured by the signatures of solvent business men. He was a man of great business energy, but he [illegible] hotel.

It is very, very hard for some of our Minnesota exchanges to swallow the recent defeat of the Washburn family in the Republican State Convention. We imagine the editor of the St Paul Press, for instance made [illegible] good many wry faces. At the same time he endorses the nomination with quite as much cordiality as one could expect. Hon Cushman K Davis, the nominee for Governor, beat Washburn in the Convention by three votes only. He is spoken of as a young man of remarkable ability and integrity of character, and is warmly endorsed by the leading journals of Minnesota. The Mankato Union (Democratic) says of him: "If no other candidate representing more advanced views and coming more directly from the people as a representative of their demands for a pure government shall be offered for the suffrages of the voters of Minnesota we shall support Mr Davis."

A leading daily paper in New York city is inclined to grumble a little because Controller Green never passes a bill against the city without first putting in a demurrer. We should suppose that after the Tweed Ring's [illegible] experience of that city, honest people would hardly complain of an attribute like that complained of in Controller Green.

By our morning dispatches it will be seen that the Republican State Central Committee has had a [illegible] and have fixed [illegible] as the place of meeting of the State Convention. Everything is auspicious for a brilliant and successful campaign of Republicans [illegible]

CITY.

MEETING OF THE SUFFERERS.

Pursuant to announcement a large number of persons who have sustained losses by reason of the late calamitous fire assembled last evening at the Court House. The large room of the Court House was well filled by sufferers and their friends.

The meeting was called to order by Mr W F Wilcox.

On motion of C S Silver ex Gov Curry was unanimously chosen Chairman of the meeting.

On taking the chair Mr Curry remarked that he was aware of the objects of the meeting. He presumed that it was a meeting not only of the sufferers but also of their friends. He would be happy to assist the objects of the meeting in any manner or to serve those who had sustained losses.

Mr J G Glenn was placed in nomination for Secretary, but declined to serve.

Mr Bunnell moved that Mr W P [illegible] act as Secretary, which motion carried.

The President suggested that a Committee be appointed to ascertain the actual damages sustained.

Mr Carr stated that a dispatch had been received from Governor Grover, which probably the meeting would like to hear. A general desire being expressed to hear the telegram it was handed to the Secretary who read as follows:

SALEM August 7th 1873

H F W[illegible] Chairman, and J G Glenn Secretary: On account of public engagements I will not be able to attend the meeting in aid of the sufferers by the late fire to be held this evening. I will be glad to assist in forwarding the purpose of the meeting. Salem will gladly in any manner agreeable to her sister city.

L F GROVER

The President stated that he would be pleased to hear remarks from any gentleman present that might tend to enlighten all present as to the purposes and objects of the meeting and which would secure the ends to be accomplished.

In response to his suggestion Mr J N Dolph was called out. That gentleman spoke at some length. He said he was wholly ignorant of the object of the meeting. He heartily sympathized with those who had suffered loss by the fire. In everything he would gladly do all in his power to alleviate distress or aid the suffering. If the meeting would suggest something he would heartily co-operate in any movement that would be likely to secure these desired results. Money was needed to relieve immediate wants and to rebuild the desolated portion of the city. He would do all in his power to assist in raising means or secure a loan on long time at low rates of interest to enable persons to rebuild. He thought the most effective way to proceed would be to appoint a committee whose duty should be to report a concerted plan of action so that all could act wisely and to some purpose.

Mr Mason was also invited to address the meeting. He disapproved of the action taken by the Mayor and Common Council. In his opinion a mistake had been made. He thought a committee ought to be appointed to canvass the burnt district to ascertain the actual loss sustained and to solicit aid from abroad. Until that was done, the meeting could not effect anything.

Mr Carr moved that a committee of five be appointed whose duty was to canvass the burned portion of the city, ascertain the actual loss and to learn it possible how much money would be necessary to enable the sufferers to rebuild or procure tools, etc, the committee to be authorized to report the result of such investigation to a subsequent meeting. The President appointed as such committee John A Carr D D Bunnell, Dr J G Glenn F M Arnold and Lewis Love.

It was moved and carried that a committee consisting of five persons, also be appointed. This committee were authorized to communicate with persons of means abroad and cooperate with others in negotiating a loan and procuring assistance at once. In addition the committee were required to report by the next meeting a plan of action which should be pursued. The President appointed the following gentlemen to act as the committee: Hon L F Grover, Mayor H Failing, C A Dolph, D D Bunnell, W S Ladd, L Sinsheimer and Mr Brendle.

On motion the meeting adjourned to meet again on next Monday evening at the Court House to hear the report of the two committees appointed.

PERSONAL, LOCAL AND GENERAL, ETC

[From the Catholic Sentinel.]

Rev Mother Caron, Mother General of the Sisters of the House of Providence, whose arrival in this country we noticed some time since, left Vancouver last Wednesday to visit the several branches of the Order on Puget Sound.

Rt Rev A M A Blanchet, Bishop of Nesqually, left Vancouver last Monday morning to visit Walla Walla and other places on the route on official business. He will also administer the Sacrament of Confirmation to a number of children at the Umatilla Agency, Rev F N Blanchet, our venerable Archbishop being prevented by indisposition to travel so great a distance.

[From the P C Advocate.]

There will be a camp-meeting held on the Conference Campground near Canby, commencing on Thursday the 18th of September and holding over two Sabbaths, Providence permitting.

We were shown this week a postal card on which was written a letter in short hand by Master Claude Gatch, son of President Gatch of Salem, to Master Frank Phelps of this city. It is seldom a boy so young attains such proficiency in an art so difficult to master.

Rev. J F Anderson, former pastor of the A M E Zion Church in this city, returned on Tuesday evening from attending the Conference which closed its session in San Francisco a few weeks since. He will be glad to see his friends at his residence at No 1 Taylor street, just west of Third. He is very much pleased with his present appointment at Napa, California. It is probable he will remain in our midst for two or three months. Rev A B Smith, his successor at this place will probably come to his appointment in about a month.

[illegible]

Quite a shower yesterday afternoon.

More money coming—see telegram.

Subscribers are returning in great numbers.

An artist with his pencils was found up the ruins yesterday.

Observe the new advertisements to-day, every one of them.

Mr George Abernethy has relocated at the office of the Advocate.

Several new buildings are in process of erection in the burnt district.

The Vancouver Seminary, under the charge of Mr D Curtis, will open on the 1st of September.

Several articles should be placed in a room where they could be identified and taken away by the [illegible].

A baby carriage was picked up on the streets during the fire. It can be found at Mrs Hunnings' in Caruthers' Addition beyond the old Mason brewery.

Every one should procure a copy of the WEEKLY OREGONIAN, now ready, which contains a new map of the burnt district and a full description of the great fire.

The walls of Lindley & Johnston's? A Co and Silver's buildings were partially razed yesterday by means of a derrick and ropes. A large crowd witnessed the operation.

Any person who has in his possession a silver plated bust that found during the fire will confer a favor by leaving the same at [illegible] Gerould's, First street between Pine and Oak.

A pair of horses attached to a wagon filled with shingles started off on Front street when the train passed on the [illegible] yesterday morning, and as they approached the ferry the wagon was thrown to one side, and the driver as well as the horses, escaped uninjured.

AN EXPLANATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Referring to a remark made in a column of the evening paper to which my attention was called to-day in regard to my refusal to sell a mechanic tools on credit since the fire, I desire to make a few explanations which seem due to me as a citizen and as a business man.

First—The charge is true.

Second—The mechanic aforesaid is not worthy of credit nor has he been, for reasons other than poverty, which reasons are well known to the hardware trade.

Third—He is not destitute but on the contrary saved several hundred dollars worth of furniture which is now in his possession.

Fourth—The firm of which I am a member is not a relief society and do not feel that they should be expected to bear the brunt of starting mechanics or others in business. Yet while we feel that no mechanic or other person who has heretofore had our confidence has been refused credit by us since the fire.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

There will be religious services in the Scandinavian Evangelical Lutheran Church of East Portland, next Sunday, August 10th in the Norwegian language at 10 o'clock A M and in the English at 2 o'clock P M as usual. The Rev A E Fridrichsen D D will officiate.

THE OTHER SIDE.—Mr Stephens, the gentleman who collects tickets on the railroad ferry boat, called at our office last evening to correct a statement made yesterday morning in relation to the drayman A W Reynard, who it was asserted had been charged fare when crossing the ferry. It was stated that Reynard was hauling over to the depot a quantity of hose which belonged to the fire department of Salem and that he had been sent by the Chief Engineer. He was asked for his fare and on telling the character of his errand, the ticket collector insisted upon making him pay. Mr Stephens denies every statement made by Mr Reynard concerning the matter. At present it remains purely a question of veracity between the parties. Mr Reynard's version of the matter was published, and common justice requires that we should give Mr Stephens the benefit of a public denial.

LICENSES COLLECTED.—Mr A H Morgan, Deputy Collector and Assessor of Internal Revenue, has kindly furnished us with the following amounts collected for licenses in the State during the months of May, June and July:

Wholesale liquor dealers	$1 900 00

FEAST OF ASSUMPTION.—Next Friday, August 15th, the Catholic Church will celebrate the feast of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary into Heaven. This being a holyday of obligation it will be celebrated in the Cathedral Church in this city in the most solemn manner. Masses will be celebrated at six, eight and ten o'clock A M, the last being grand High Mass, and solemn Vespers at eight o'clock in the evening. Thursday, previous, the eve of the Assumption is a day of strict fasting and abstinence.

TIMELY GIFT.—Bishop Morris has just received from a friend in Philadelphia two fire extinguishers for St Helen's Hall and the Bishop Scott Grammar School. These implements have been of very great service in checking the spread of even large fires. They are said to have stopped the fire in many instances in Baltimore in the great conflagration there recently, and it would be a wise precaution to furnish every house in our city with one.

FROM SALEM TO OLYMPIA.—Col Knight of Salem, accompanied by his wife and sister in law, left Olympia yesterday morning en route for Salem. Coming by rail and boat they reached Portland in the afternoon just in time to catch the express train for Salem. They jumped on board and arrived at their destination last evening at 7 15 o'clock. Brisk traveling, that—from Olympia to Salem in one day.

INSTALLATION.—The following are the officers of Nonpareil Lodge, No 80, I O G T installed Wednesday evening August 6 1873 by D G W C T E W Rvin: W C T R Bird; W V T S; S T W Stearns Sec; C A Raymond Treas; Fanny Hayden Chap; Ada Morgan Marshal; H J Daniels Guard; Miranda Wiggs Sentinel; Wm Wiggs; I S Anna Sterns; L S Mary Williams.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE TURN VEREIN.—The Portland Turn Verein will hold their anniversary exercises at the Central Market Hall on the evening of the 27th inst. The Salem Turn Verein will be present. In the programme gymnastic exercises, feats by Boss and a grand ball will be the features. The proceeds of the affair will be placed in the hands of the Relief Committee.

VACANCY FILLED.—At a meeting of the Democratic County Central Committee for Multnomah held in this city Wednesday night Eugene Semple was nominated to fill the vacancy in the State Central Committee caused by the resignation of J A Chapman.

Hurgren & Shindler can be found at the office of Atkinson Woodard & Co, under the Oro Fino Theatre. Will be happy to meet those that are indebted to them. Will resume business in a few days.

At this season of the year cramps and pains in the stomach and bowels, dysentery, diarrhœa &c are quite common and should be checked at once. Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is the best article that can be used in all such cases, and should be kept in every family. Use it internally.

A SLIGHT COLD, COUGHS.—Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough or slight cold which would yield to a mild remedy if neglected often attacks the lungs. Brown's Bronchial Troches give sure and almost immediate relief.

IF YOU HAVE A COUGH or cold, you are in danger. It will be well for you the sooner the better. It should be cured at once. Thousands have already saved themselves with WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, which has cured the disease in every stage.

MAGIC OF THE MOUTH.—Odoriferous SOZODONT renders the mouth enchanting, composed of rare antiseptic herbs, it imparts whiteness to the teeth, a delicious flower like aroma to the breath and preserves intact, from youth to age, the teeth.

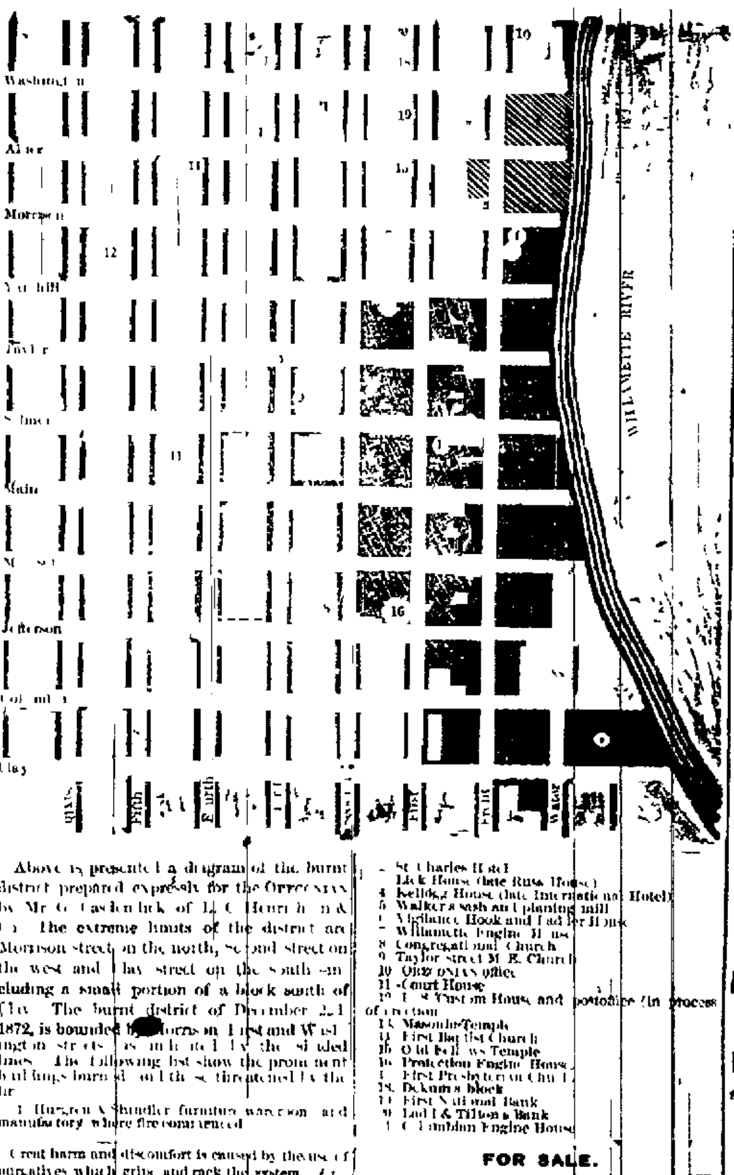
Some people may be much excited over the ruins of the North End, and it is a good sign but it does not disturb Beck & Waldman, corner Front and Washington streets, in the least, as they intend to pursue the usual course to their customers and that is to sell goods at prices which will suit all those with limited means to provide themselves with good clothing at a very small outlay of money. Customers should bring their children to this house for neat fitting suits.

Why linger in blissful ignorance? Why do you wander about, seeking a place where they keep the largest and finest stock of Summer Clothing? Why, by high prices of goods, when the fact has been long established that the great firm of J KOHN & Co, 71 Front Street, sell clothing and Gents Furnishing Goods cheaper. They keep the best, they sell the cheapest, and what more can be asked?



Above is presented a diagram of the burnt district prepared expressly for the OREGONIAN by Mr G Cavenlick of [illegible] Church & Co. The extreme limits of the district are Morrison street on the north, Second street on the west and Clay street on the south—including a small portion of a block south of Clay. The burnt district of December 22d 1872, is bounded by Morrison, First and Washington streets, as indicated by the shaded lines. The following list shows the prominent buildings burned and those threatened by the fire:

1 Hurgren & Shindler furniture wareroom and manufactory where fire commenced

- 2 Lick House
- 3 [illegible] Hotel
- 4 Bellevue House

Great harm and discomfort is caused by the use of purgatives which gripe and rack the system. Parsons' Purgative Pills are free from all impure matter and are mild and health giving in their operation.

FINALLY DECIDED.

It is an old but true saying that a man is known by the books he reads and the company he keeps. This saying is illustrative of the great sewing machine war in which nearly all the second-class machines have played prominent parts, expending much ammunition and making forced marches attended with great loss. But our readers have not seen the name of the world renowned GROVER & BAKER SEWING MACHINE flourished before the people in the above connection and this dignified reserve has established the popularity of the GROVER & BAKER SEWING MACHINE now and forever. It stands on its respectability and merits. These machines make the ELASTIC STITCH and SHUTTLE STITCH, and will be sold on installments of $10 per month. W T Shanahan, agent, 71 First street.

NOTICE.

W. Aschenheim wishes to inform his friends and a generous public that he rose from his late ruins, First and Taylor sts, and is now successfully located at 121 First, bet Morrison and Yamhill sts, where he presents the finest display of Foreign and Domestic Fruits, Poultry, etc. GIVE HIM A START AGAIN.

A Critical Season.

Toward the close of the warm season the long continued heat begins to tell upon body and mind. Both become exhausted, and we feel instinctively that nature after fighting a gallant battle with a debilitating temperature is drooping at last and requires to be stimulated and reinforced. This, therefore, is a period of the year when a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is especially useful. The immediate effect of this unequalled vegetable restorative is to strengthen the stomach, sharpen the appetite, tone and regulate the bowels and give strength and vigor to the nerves. As a preventive of the endemic and epidemic complaints that prevail at this season, and as a remedy for indigestion, liver disturbances, nervous debility, constipation, languor, headaches and all irregularities of the bowels this pure and wholesome vegetable tonic and alterative has no equal among medicines.

COLEMAN'S EUCALYPTUS

Dr J S Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medical qualities of the Eucalyptus which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for [illegible], having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY CANAL and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings and cures them by its alterative, healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy.

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHŒA etc.

This preparation is the result of Dr Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U S Marine Hospital in San Francisco in 1871 and 1872, where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the promised results and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office 30 Kearney street San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful yet harmless febrifuge and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies of those diseases are entirely avoided.

FOR PHYSICIANS Coleman's Fluid Extract of Eucalyptus in 1 lb bottles.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST [illegible]

THE IOWA TRAIN ROBBERY

[illegible] as follows [illegible]

[illegible] were three [illegible] gold [illegible] Bluffs on time [illegible] parties [illegible] Assistance [illegible] baggage [illegible] and stopped. Of course pack ages went pounding to the lower side of the car and [illegible] were [illegible] knocked about and shaken up. [illegible] the door on the lower side—the one on the [illegible] in each hat [illegible] mask on his face. [illegible] the leader [illegible] the robbers [illegible] tore the mask from his face. He was of medium height, was well built, red faced sandy haired and [illegible] He was dressed like a laborer. Two of [illegible] fellows [illegible] masks appeared at the door with a revolver in each hand, which they leveled at the heads of the inmates. The scoundrel in the car did all the talking, and he commenced as soon as he was in shouting at the top of his voice: Give us those keys—give us those keys or I'll blow your brains out. Give us the money or I'll blow [illegible] We want money! Where's them safe keys—quick, or some of you'll get killed! At the same time he pointed his pistol close to the heads of the astonished [illegible] Where's the bullion—give us the bullion. Then he shouted [illegible] men: 'Rush in and help! Come on [illegible] a set of robbers as you are—rush in and help some one to it!' Burgess gave the scoundrel the safe key, and he did so. The fellow then locked the safe, the men at the door telling the inmates that if they stirred they would [illegible] their heads off. The chief robber seized a satchel belonging to Burgess and crammed the safe packages into it, and as he did so he said: Here isn't half as much as we want; where's that bullion? [illegible] By this time he was on his feet. Mr Killingsworth pointed to the bullion [illegible] saying: There it is under your feet. The robber rejoined: We don't want them things; give us the bullion or we'll blow your brains out. He evidently did not know what [illegible] and supposed it was coin, and that there were bags full of gold in the safe. The gold [illegible] bricks on the door he thought were nothing better than lead. At last the [illegible] thought it time for him to leave, so he picked up Mr Killingsworth's satchel containing [illegible] books, a package of letters, and a few private articles, and had the whole [illegible] out before him, at the same time pointing his revolver at two of them and telling the men at the door to keep sharp watch. Out the five gentlemen walked, and then for the first time got a view of the wreck. The chief directed them around the place where the engine lay, at the same time expressing the hope that nobody was killed—they didn't want to kill anybody, all they wanted was money. He asked if anybody was killed—and just then Burgess saw the engineer sitting between the engine and tender both on their sides. He went up to him, found that he was dead and told Mr Royce so. The head robber expressed sorrow and really spoke as if he meant it and repeated his remark that they didn't intend to hurt anybody. Then all the robbers went off toward their horses, which were hitched about a hundred yards south of the track, and mounting them rode away toward the southwest. Mr Killingsworth felt certain however that only five of the robbers were mounted. In fact he saw but five, though others said there were seven, all told. They did not run to their horses, but walked in a deliberate manner and went across the country just as deliberately.

The above includes all the main features of Mr Killingsworth's statement. He was some time in relating his experience, but he said the whole thing did not last more than five minutes, and in fact no person had time to recover from astonishment before the robbers were gone. It seemed [illegible] that so much should have been said and done in so short a time. After Superintendent Royce and the rest had been released from [illegible] they had opportunities to view [illegible] The robbers had chosen a good place for their deed—and this and [illegible] ditched the engine were the only evidence of [illegible] they gave. The locality was one of the most lonely [illegible] and the place of operation was in a cut with the banks fifteen feet high on either side and was at the rounding of a curve [illegible] The engine had slacked speed a little on the curve, but was still going at the rate of nearly twenty [illegible] The passenger coaches did not leave the track, the forward trucks of the [illegible] went off, and that was all.

The passengers—there were [illegible] car—heard the firing and shouts [illegible] here and there with the noise of the [illegible] front were all brought standing [illegible] generally by the smash up [illegible] The Chinese all lay down flat on the floor [illegible] were in that position when Mr Clark went there. Some of the passengers, after the train stopped, put their heads out of the windows and the scoundrels [illegible] and told them to stay [illegible] Several stepped out [illegible] and were told to get back, and [illegible] A few got off at the rear [illegible] ran away but the robbers [illegible] come back. We don't want [illegible] and the passengers returned and were told to get into the car [illegible] which they did. [illegible] robber told him to go back. He [illegible] on the bank.
